what does it mean to be curious?
What does it mean to be curious?
JOIN US FOR A SERIES OF FOUR DISCUSSIONS

What is curiosity and can it be learned?
📅 Wednesday–November 18, 2015  ⏰ 8–9:30 p.m.
 › Alison Langmead, History of Art and Architecture & School of Information Sciences
 › Aaron Henderson, Studio Arts
 › Edward Stricker, Neuroscientist & Dean of University Honors College
 › Paolo Palmieri, History and Philosophy of Science

Can sites cultivate curiosity?
📅 Thursday–December 10, 2015  ⏰ 8–9:30 p.m.
 › Richard Pell, CMU/Center for PostNatural History
 › Kirk Savage, History of Art and Architecture
 › Steve Tonsor, Carnegie Museum of Natural History
 › Barbara Weissberger, Studio Arts

Can tools enable curiosity?
📅 Wednesday–February 17, 2016  ⏰ 8–9:30 p.m.
 › Nathan Clark, Computational and Systems Biology
 › Eric Moe, Department of Music
 › Jocelyn Monahan, School of Information Sciences
 › Jeff Suzik, Falk Laboratory School

What is curiosity in action?
📅 Wednesday–April 6, 2016  ⏰ 8–9:30 p.m.
 › Gretchen Bender, History of Art and Architecture
 › Carol Greco, UPMC Center for Integrative Medicine
 › Delanie Jenkins, Studio Arts
 › Cori Richards-Zawacki, Department of Biological Sciences

FOR EVENT DETAILS & LOCATIONS, RSVP at
 › library.pitt.edu/curiosity
 › RSVP Required
 › Event locations will be announced to those who RSVP
 › Light refreshments will be provided

MODERATED & COORDINATED by
 › Nate Morehouse, Department of Biological Sciences
 › Kate Joranson, Frick Fine Arts Library

the year of the HUMANITIES
IN THE UNIVERSITY
humanities.pitt.edu

The DIETRICH School of Arts & Sciences
Department of Biological Sciences

University of Pittsburgh
University Library System
RESOURCES | TECHNOLOGY | EXPERTISE